"THE RAT" COMING

There has come to the screen a photoplay named "The Rat" from the successful play of the same name
by David L. Estrange, Constance Collier and Ivor Novello, that is breath taking in its vivid realism of the Paris underworld of the Montmartre district. The story is a chapter in the life of an Apache that notorious character identified
only with the night life of Gay Paris.
It thrills while yet it sways you,
and no one will fail to experience a surge of emotion as this great drama unfolds to a climax so intensely powerful and compelling. "The Rat" is coming to Strand Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.—adv.

SOME MIGHTY MEN

Used To Be the Old-Time Product of the Town of Hope.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
Your recent pictures of ships and the Camden shipyards brought up old times. I worked with my father in those yards. Father took the job of planking, hewed his side of the plank and half of the side worked by his helpers then shouldered and carried one end of it with two helpers staggering under the other end. I've known him to walk ten miles each day for two months and work ten hours in the yard, and gain 15 pounds in weight while doing it. The wage was $2.50 a day. He never missed a stroke at spike or trunnel-head.
Babe Ruth misses the ball often. I have gone into the woods with my father, felled a big maple and then hewed it into a keel for those vessels.
I had to pry my fingers from the broad-axe handle, as my left hand did most of the hewing.
About the time I was born (1852)
they built a vessel at Youngtown and hailed it to Camden. There they killed an ox or two and drank rum
from a barrel, hitting it by the chimes
—no prohibition then! Those were men of muscle. My great grandmother's brother, John Dunton, could pull two tons of moose meat on the ice; his brother Abner could pull one ton.
So said my uncle Jack Young, who with Robert Brann of Rockland drove ox teams over the plains to California when I was a youth. Jack and Robert married the Ingraham sisters, Margie and Fannie, of Rockland. Jack worked on the Navy Yard at Vallejo, and Robert had a sail-lift, which is still here and run by his son Hardy. I think, "When I was on a visit to the east the last time, at our annual family picnic Abner Dunton, a very small man, but 100 years old, told me John could cut six cords of wood per day for five days straight. Maine's prohibition hasn't produced any more such men."

HIS MONEY TOOK WINGS

Burglars With Clothes Pole Capture Pantaloon Containing $1000—Two Youths Said To Have Confessed.

A slight sound, possibly the snapping of a curtain, awoke Mrs. Alden Merrifield of Hyler street, Thomaston at 12.30 Thursday morning, and she was immediately impressed with some presence in the room. Her outcry awoke Mr. Merrifield, and in a shadowy sort of way they could see Mr. Merrifield's garments disappearing in the direction of the window.
Examination showed that somebody had raised the chamber window, and with the aid of the clothes-pole had hooked Mr. Merrifield's clothing, which lay across a chair.
The articles taken were a pair of pantalons, a union suit, a shirt and stockings. One of the stockings was found by Deputy Sheriff Ludwick about 10 feet from the window, dropped there evidently when the burglar made his hasty getaway.
What the officers did not then find,
however, was the valuable contents of the pantaloon pockets—$900 in a hip pocket, $100 in one of the side pockets and a gold watch.
Determined that no stone should be left unturned to track the burglar the sheriff's department sent to Portland for finger print experts.
Two of them came in response to his request and impressions were made of the fingerprints left on the window sill and the clothespole.
Developments came thick and fast in this case yesterday. First was the arrest of John E. Wyllie, a Thomaston boy who has given the authorities more or less trouble in the past year or two.
Suspicion that he was connected with the Merrifield burglary grew out of his alleged utterances in the barber shop of Karl A. Stetson on the day before.
According to Mr. Stetson, as told on the witness stand before Judge Miller yesterday morning, Wyllie came into his shop for a haircut, and in the course of it asked this question:
"Who, in your judgment, has got the bigger roll Alden Merrifield or George W. Ludwick?"
The barber gave it as his opinion that Mr. Merrifield could show more cash.
Wyllie is then alleged to have said that if anybody got Merrifield's roll
he probably wouldn't do anything about it and added that a piece of lead would probably keep him quiet.
Mr. Merrifield testified that Wyllie sat with him in his automobile that day.
Although much work remains to be done on the structures which have been reared by the Lawrence Portland Cement Company, all but two of the buildings have now been erected,
according to Vice President Charles A.
Porter, under whose supervision the plant is being built.
One of these is the hoist house for the main hoisting engine which will bring the rock from the quarry to the crusher; the other is the clay
grinding and clay storage building,
the foundation and casings for which are now being excavated. All of the other buildings are well along except the coal house which will be completed by next Tuesday or Wednesday.
The two giant stacks which are to furnish draft for the kilns, are completed as far as the exterior goes, and workmen will start Tuesday on the brick lining. For the benefit of many persons who still ask the question, it is stated that the stacks are each 235 feet tall.
Work on one of the kilns has progressed to such an extent that it will be ready for lining by Nov. 15.
Four cornfed mills are on the foundations.
The motors for the cement plant
are arriving rapidly, three carloads having been received one day this week.
The night crews, somewhat lessened now, will continue until the machinery has been installed.
Six carloads of structural steel have arrived this week and the crew is on the ground to look after the erection of it.
Plans were made at the meeting of Winslow-Holbrook Post Thursday evening for the dedication of Winslow-Holbrook square (corner Park and Main streets) on the afternoon of Armistice Day. Formal services will be held including a parade.
Other Legion activities include a smoker for the evening of Nov. 10,
and the Armistice Ball on Nov. 11.

THE FARM BUREAU ANNUAL

Knox and Lincoln Farmers and Families Have Their Yearly Accounting and Elect Officers.

One of the largest meetings of the Knox-Lincoln Farm Bureau has ever held took place in Warren Thursday.
It was the annual meeting of the organization and there were representatives from 24 communities.
Five reels of movies obtained from the U. S. Department of Agriculture were shown in the forenoon. These covered improvements in the home,
and work on dairy improvement.
E. N. Hobbs of Hope opened the meeting with a talk on the work of the Farm Bureau and Extension Service during the past year. The vice president's report by E. A.
Wotton of Rockland, showed there were 334 members in the Farm Bureau the past year. The extension work as carried on through the Farm Bureau has reached 26 different communities in the county. Two new communities are to be added this year—Rockport and Simonton.
Merrill Robinson of Warren, treasurer, gave the financial statement of the year, which showed the Bureau
to be in a very good condition.
The club work was reported by Miss Ida Bennett of Nobleboro.
There were 169 enrolled, 51 boys and 118 girls; in sewing 84, cooking and housekeeping 27, chick raising 25, garden 23, canning 3, potato 2, room improvement 2, poultry management 1, pig 1 and dairy 1. Of the 169 there were 129 who finished their work, or 71 per cent, which is the largest ever obtained in the county. Four charters were awarded and 12 seals.
Local contests were held by all of the 14 clubs.
The crops project, as reported by Clarence Walker of Hope, showed 17
plots of alfalfa that are on the second year. These showed a yield of from 4 to 6 tons an acre; 252 pounds of seed was sown last spring in 15 communities by 31 men. One potato roguing demonstration was given during the year.
Clarence Walker also reported on forestry, showing 1000 who planted last year. Three woodlot improvement demonstrations were given during the year. This covered thinning and pruning of white pine.
Leon Dodge of North Edgcomb, reported 34 farm accounts started and 12 closed. During 1927 76 poultry accounts were kept, and this year to begin Nov. 1, there are 162 poultry accounts applied for. Thirteen farm management meetings were held during the year to analyze farm and poultry accounts.
The agricultural survey started in 1925 was corrected this year. It showed a decrease of 214 farms
having 50 hens or more, 50 apple trees or more and five or more cows. Poultry showed a decrease of 36 flocks, but an increase of 25,853 hens. There were fewer orchards but 1391 more trees. In dairying there was a decrease of 78 cows. This indicates that more business is being done by fewer farmers.
The dairy project as reported by
H. H. Nash of Camden showed that 10 bulls had been replaced this year
by pure breeds as a result of the better bull campaign. One feed meeting was held and dairy rationed were discussed. Four meetings on judging were held. 228 samples of milk were tested from 50 different herds.
Several men have been weighing the milk from individual cows during the year.
Earle Hodgkins of Jefferson reported on the orchard project. Three communities carried the orchard spray service project, and 19 orchardists owning 7610 trees were assisted in the care of their orchards. Two pruning demonstrations, one spraying demonstration, one spray mixing demonstration, 16 grafting demonstrations and five apple thinning demonstrations were given during the year.
A fruit show was held in Rockland,
the principal varieties shown being McIntosh Red, Delicious and Northern Spy.
Philip Lee of Waldoboro gave a very satisfactory report on poultry work; 24 flocks, having 8722 hens, have applied for the white diarrhea test. Three poultry clubs were organized, which carried out a definite program for the year. A field day was held, with an attendance of 155.
Roy Jones of Storrs, Conn. and O. M.
Wilbur were the speakers. Fourteen egg grading demonstrations were given during the year; 11 meetings were held on poultry disease.
Two hundred and seventy-eight cows were captioned at four demonstrations. 21 demonstrations were held on selection of breeders.
2233 hens were examined and 854 selected as breeders; 32 poultrymen in the county are practicing definite range rotation.
The extension program for 1928
was presented by County Agent Wentworth at the home demonstration agent, Miss E. A. Wotton. The agricultural program consists of alfalfa demonstrations, Better Bull campaign, Farm Accounts, Farm Inventories, Poultry Accounts campaign, Forest Tree Planting, Timber Estimating, Apple Thinning demonstrations, Orchard Spray service, Top working campaign, Adult Poultry clubs, Egg Grading demonstrations, Range Rotation and Selection of Breeders. The Home Economics program comprises Clothing Construction, Preparation of Vegetables, Table Furnishings, Square Meals for Health, Buymanship, Home Furnishings, Kitchen Improvement and Renovation of Furniture.
The Women's Farm Bureau and Extension organization has accomplished a large amount of work. Mrs.
Harold Nash of Camden, County Foods project leader, gave the following report: All 20 communities held at least one foods meeting during the year; 31 meetings were held with the home demonstration agent, with a total attendance of 409, and 21 were held without the home demonstration agent with a total attendance of 243.

At the close of the annual Farm Bureau meeting the membership showed 348 men and 300 women, a total of 648. This is 42 members more than last year at the same time.
Hope, as usual, led with 44 men and 33 women, a total of 77. Damariscotta was second with 35 men and 28 women and Camden was third with 30 men and 28 women.
Among the outstanding solicitors
are: Mrs. O. H. Hays, Damariscotta;
16; Albion Wotton, Friendship, 15;
E. N. Hobbs, Hope, 14; Mrs. M. W.
Bumps, Damariscotta, 14; B. H. Richards, Hope, 13; H. E. Hardy, Hope, 12; H. B. Cunningham, Washington,
12; Leon Dodge, North Edgcomb, 12;
Mrs. L. A. Wadsworth, Damariscotta, 12;
E. C. Cutting, Warren, 11; Mrs. Emily
Holt, Hope, 11; Mrs. Arthur Faxon,
East Union, 11; H. H. Nash, Camden,
10; Mrs. Doris Webb, Union, 10;
Wallace Robbins, Hope, 10.
Seventy-seven per cent of the old members renewed.

NOT TILL MAY

Formal Dedication of Carlton Bridge Postponed Until Spring.

The formal dedication of the Carlton bridge at Bath will not take place this year, but will occur on May 26, 1928, the Saturday before Memorial Day.
This decision was reached at a meeting of the legislative committee on the bridge dedication, the governor and council and the state highway commission.
Gov. Brewster was given power to select a special sub-committee to work out plans for the dedication ceremonies, the committee to comprise two members of the legislative committee, two members of the council and two members of the bridge commission.
It has been definitely determined that the highway deck of the bridge
will be open for travel around Nov.
15, but the work will not be wholly and finally completed until nearly December first. The dedication committee therefore decided to postpone the celebration until spring as they felt that December weather conditions might be too uncertain to insure a good attendance.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had to live my life again I would have made a rule to read and listen to some music at least once a week.
The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

WANDERLUST

Beyond the East the sunrise, beyond the West
the sea,
And East and West the wanderlust that will not let me be;
It works in me like madness, dear, to bid me say good-by!
For the seas call and the stars call, and oh,
the call of the sky!
I know not where the white road runs, nor what the blue hills are,
But man can have the sun for friend, and for his guide a star;
And there's no end of voyaging when once the voice is heard,
For the river calls and the road calls, and oh,
the call of a bird!
Yonder the long horizon lies, and there by night and day
The old ships draw to home again, the young
ships sail away;
And come I may, but go I must, and if men
ask you why?
You may put the blame on the stars and the sun
and the white road and the sky!
—Gerard Gould.

THE RADIO FUND GROWS

The sum desired for a radio set for Rockland's Home for Aged Women has been increased since the former report and needs only a little more to complete the aimed-at one hundred dollars. Thinking of the joy that an installed radio is to bring to the shut-ins of the Home one is convinced that the readers of this paper will see to it that the fund does not fall of completion. How in unexpected quarters the matter engages attention is indicated by W. E. Foster, vice president of the Julius Mathews advertising agency of Boston, who writes: "Caught my eye on your editorial page—the fund to furnish a radio to the Home for Aged Women. Enclosed is a little contribution to that most worthy object." Mr. Foster's five dollars was acknowledged in a previous issue. The fund today:

Previously reported	$76.20
American Legion Auxiliary	5.00
Brownie Club of Baptist Church	5.00
Mrs. Harry O. Gurdy	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Meserve	1.00
Total to date	$89.20

We have often had occasion to commend the common-sense utterances of Dr. Thomas, Maine's distinguished commissioner of education. His address at the Portland convention contained many things offering field for favorable consideration. In particular the closing words of it, in which he sensibly disposed of a subject much had under discussion during these recent times, "I want my teacher," he said, "to be up to date. I want her to be as good looking as she can make herself. I want her to be in reasonable style. She will have a greater influence on her school if she is. If bobbed hair is fashionable, she may do as she pleases about it. If short skirts are the thing, then here may be as short as the style provides. Styles do not mean extremes and the teacher of reasonable style will be in greater demand than one who goes to protest in her habits."

Sound words. The teacher stands before the pupil as an example, not alone intellectually but in many attitudes of which the sartorial is not the least. Every girl pupil takes color from what she observes in the mistress of the school-room. Nor should the male teacher be left out of this consideration. The psychology of dress is subtle and far-reaching. The man who stands before his boys attired in proper fashion sets an example of incalculable value and has gone a long way in winning their respect and following.

Insurance men in the recent national convention at Memphis placed their stamp of approval upon a new emphasis of their product as "life" and not "death" insurance. Instead of stressing death there was much talk during the sessions of sunny days golfing in balmy lands, of comfortable sums accumulated to make old age happy, of college guaranteed for the children, and of old men and women smiling through the sunset years as a result of their thrifty use of life insurance. The man who pays the premium was placed in the center of the picture, enjoying with his family the realization of lifelong financial plans. We have always respected faith in this form of protective investment and regarded the representative of a life insurance company not as a salesman upon whom a cold shoulder should be turned but as one who offered for our consideration an investment of highest worth. The young man who at the earliest possible moment protects himself with a life insurance policy has engaged in a campaign of thrift that is freighted with the most alluring possibilities. We should regard a law for compulsory life insurance as of infinitely greater value to society than compulsory insurance for automobiles.

Rockland as an airport? Our Washington correspondent arouses an interest in the subject which our readers will be quick to respond to. There are excellent land spaces upon the city's outskirts admirably adapted to the purpose, with a broad harbor presenting an aquatic field that leaves nothing to be desired. We shall look to see the suggestion meet with careful, not to say favorable, consideration in official quarters.

Our conception of the last word in meanness is the motorist who runs over you and skurries away without leaving his number. Also that other one who dents the mud-guard of your parked car and leaves you to discover at your leisure the mischief he has done.

Rockland's Navy Day celebration was confined to the display of a solitary flag on Main street. The patriotic concern which made this acknowledgment was Knowlton's Market.

THE QUARRIES

Ah, many things the quarries know,
Sphinx-like and still on either side the bridge,
There at the end of Limerock street.
They know that member of the Board of Trade
To whom the quarries seem Nothing at all but natural resources
To be exploited for commercial purposes.
And that professor, too, who finds in them
Easy examples of rock strata and the law of falling bodies.
The blast to him means nothing more than the expansiveness of gasses.
They know the artist who will stand enthralled
For hours leaning on the rail,
Watching the play of light and shadow
As the wind ruffles the autumn leaves;
The kaleidoscopic shift of sunset clouds
Reflected in the water, still, serene,
Between its high, protecting banks.
And there's the black-eyed boy,
Who always takes the other way to reach his home
And will not walk down Limerock street
Because he feels a sudden nausea
When he comes so near
The crouching, treacherous quarry that killed his father.
And there's the man who never stops to look
At the smooth surface of the quarry pool
Without the wish that it were stocked with trout
And not protected.
And there's another man the quarries know about,
But when I showed to him
The lines that I had written, telling it,
He steadfastly refused to let me publish them,
And so the tale falls flat.
For many things the quarries know,
Sphinx-like and still, on either side the road
There at the end of Limerock Street.

WASHINGTON NEWS

Rockland's Chances of Being An Airport—White For Vice President.

Washington, D. C.—(Special to The Courier-Gazette.)—The latest vice-presidential "mention" has as its subject Congressman Wallace White of Lewiston. The rumor, which is nothing but rumor and need not be taken as yet so seriously, links Mr. White with a presidential ticket with Herbert Hoover. The report gets its start probably from the fact that White has been close to Hoover in the radio situation especially. He would presumably make a man who would team, on judgments on public policies, with Hoover. He has also won attention and prominence here in connection with efforts to settle our merchant marine problem.

In fact, some time ago the report went around Washington that the Lewiston representative was being considered for a place on the shipping board. But Mr. White himself probably would not care for the job.

In the present international radio-telegraphic conference Mr. White, in public and in private, has arisen to express for the American delegation the American attitude on one or more questions. And in so doing he has presumably voiced the Hoover view at the same time.

A ticket of Hoover and White would not be bad geographically. And the coming session of Congress, with Mr. White functioning as head of the House merchant marine and fisheries committee, dealing with the important questions of radio control, merchant marine and others, may lift him to such national attention that the "boom" may get some serious thought.

Rockland is so situated that with sufficient construction work and the installation of the necessary field equipment the city may boast a Triple A airport within the next year, officials of the aeronautics division of the department of commerce declared here when questioned concerning the possibility of Rockland meeting the requirements recently established by the aeronautics division and being officially designated as an AAA port. The AAA rating is the most recent development in airport standards as compiled by the division of aeronautics. When a landing field has been awarded the AAA of the division, that field may be considered equipped beyond reproach and may be ranked as one of the best ports in the country, according to statements made by aviation experts here.

The term "airport," according to the Air Commerce Act of 1926, means any locality either of water or land which is adapted for landing and take-off of aircraft, or a place regularly used for receiving and dispatching passengers or cargo by air. The requirements for a certified airport as laid down by the department of commerce regulations, includes a suitable field, well-drained, with at least two landing strips 100 or more feet wide crossing or converging at angles of not less than 45 degrees, free from obstructions, situated near a good highway leading to the nearest town, equipped with a wind-indicator and markers and provision for fuel, communication, transportation and personnel.

Landing fields receiving a Triple A must have, in addition to these facilities, a waiting room, restaurant, sleeping quarters for at least three persons in addition to the field personnel, fire fighting and first aid equipment, ground signal devices, weather service, register of arriving and departing aircraft; have at least 2,500 feet of unobstructed landing area in all directions; and must be equipped with the latest night flying facilities, including an airport beacon, boundary lights, flood lights, signal lights, ceiling projector, hangar, flood lights, an illuminated wind indicator, and other apparatus.

New England fields are not lacking in size but in equipment, the aeronautics division asserted.

AGAIN WILSON WINS

Rockland Boy Too Much For Ross—Battling Maloney's Comeback.

The story of last night's boxing exhibition at The Arcade is quickly told, for the four bouts resulted in two bona fide knockouts and two technical knockouts, neither exhibition going beyond the third round.

Al Wilson, the local boy, climbed another rung in the ladder by knocking out Joey Ross of Lynn in the third round. This was one technical knockout referred to. Ross was still on his feet when the fight was stopped, but was in such a hard way that it was inadvisable to continue the bout. This is the best feature that has yet been placed in Wilson's hat, for the reason that Ross is a clever experienced fighter and a very hard hitter. After he had stopped a few of Wilson's terrific blows, however, he was knocked out by the same conclusion that the Rockland boy's other opponents have reached.

Fighting Sukeforth lined up to his name by knocking out Young Williamson in the third round.

Employees of the cement plant got a good chance to holler when the champion, Leonard, put it all over Lawrence of Weymouth, Mass. The latter quit in the second round.

The cement boys' joy was turned to dismay in the next bout when K. O. Mazzoni was knocked out in the third round by Battling Maloney of South Thomaston. The latter appeared to be in for a licking in the early stages of the game, but Maloney suddenly took the aggressive and from that moment was complete master of the situation. He was given a great sendoff when he left the ring as victor. He had certainly shown marked improvement over his previous battles.

THE DANGER STATE

Twenty-one persons were killed by automobiles in Massachusetts last week, three less than in the preceding week, the state registry of motor vehicles has announced. This was two more than in the corresponding week last year. Fifteen of those killed were pedestrians. During the week the registry reported 113 persons convicted of operating cars while under the influence of liquor, 18 more than in the preceding week.

A CANNED SKUNK

Raymond Page Knew What To Do With Him, But Didn't Complete Job.

A great many skunk stories are being told this fall, probably because the pestiferous animals are so much more numerous than common. They are so numerous, in fact, that it requires no Hawkshaw or Holmes to get on the scent of them.

Passing the Glen Cove Post Office Thursday morning Walter Tolman espied one of the black and white critters, which, figuratively speaking, seemed to have "lost its head." The aforesaid head had become fastened in a tomato can and the skunk was indulging in Tower of Health exercises in order to extricate himself.

Mr. Tolman was sympathetic to a certain degree but not enough so to remain in the locality to watch the result.

Comes next Raymond Page, who knows all about the habits of skunks and the proper way to handle them.

"Watch me fix him," quoth Raymond, and grasping the skunk by the tail he started for the seashore with him.

Whether this indignity gave the skunk additional energy cannot be said, but he finally succeeded in dislodging himself of his unwanted headgear, and Mr. Page suddenly found his hands more than full.

Dropping the animal in the middle of the road he also beat it, and at last accounts was giving mankind the ha-ha from beneath Ralph Tibbitts' hen-pen.

THE BARREL MAN

Pays Rockland Another Visit, With Survivor of Coast Guard Disaster.

Henry A. Thorndike of Newport, R. I., known all along the Atlantic coast as "The Barrel Man," and whose story was told at considerable length by The Courier-Gazette a year ago, was a visitor in the city again this week, accompanied by Albert W. Lawton, Jr., of New Bedford.

Mr. Lawton is a member of the Coast Guard unit and has been on a furlough since early the present month when he narrowly escaped death through an explosion which occurred on the Coast Guard boat 2324 at Wood's Hole. The fire broke out in the forward part of the craft and the gasoline was stored in the rear. Mr. Lawton after being in the water half an hour was picked up and taken into Vineyard Haven. His bodily injuries were not especially serious but he was much unnerved by the shock of the affair. His companion on the Coast Guard craft has never been seen since the accident.

Mr. Lawton is a brother of Harry Raymond Lawton, who accompanied "The Barrel Man" to Rockland last fall, and who is now attending Rhode Island State College.

Mr. Thorndike is now preparing a barrel shipment to Florida. He reports an average year in the barrel business, but says that the game is being overdone, like many other kinds of business. Having been engaged in it since 1882 he naturally knows a thing or two about barrels.

MOVIES

STRAND THEATRE

One of today's features is "The Flying Mail." C-r-a-s-h—See the mighty plume of the airplane from the sky! See the hero change from plane to plane in mid-air! See the two-man parachute drop! See the change from motorcycle to flying airplane! See the terrific battle on the wing of a "plane" thousands of feet above the earth!

The companion feature is "Eyes of the Totem," starring Wanda Hawley. Everybody has heard of the famous stage success, "The Rat." When it was running on Broadway it was a sensation. It was freely predicted that only short time would pass before it would appear as a moving picture. The prediction has come true, and "The Rat" is now on the screen, and even as the show was a sensational success, the film version promises to go it.

"The Rat" is the story of the leading parts are played by Mae Marsh, Ivor Novello and Isabel Jeans. Anyone who fails to experience a hair-raising thrill in seeing "The Rat" unfold on the screen will never enjoy a picture of any kind. "The Rat" comes for Monday and Tuesday.

PARK THEATRE

"A Park page story" from a newspaper will be thrown on the screen Monday and Tuesday.

It is the drama "Underworld" which critics herald as the most sensational and realistic crook story ever produced. Ben Hecht, who wrote the story for Paramount says of his own work, "I wrote 'Underworld' from the point of view of a writer. Fifteen years of reporting in Chicago gave me an unflinching attitude toward criminals, with the result that I feel 'Underworld' to be a front page story rather than a tale out of the magazine sections." Superb characterizations of picturesque criminal types are given by George Baneroff, Clive Brook, Larry Semon and Fred Kohler. Alluring Evelyn Brent is the featured feminine player—adv.

EMPIRE THEATRE

The feature for today is Fred Humes in "The Border Cavalier." A decidedly human story, presenting a real insight into the life of the American girl of average circumstances, is promised in "American Beauty." Bill Dooley's latest starring production, scheduled for Monday and Tuesday. As a typically American girl, with the not unusual ambition to marry a millionaire, but at the same time with a troubling affection for a youth in her own circumstances, the character played by Miss Dove is a very real one and gives her what is possibly her best opportunity for an outstanding screen portrayal "American Beauty," based on the short story of the same name by Wallace Irwin, was adapted to the screen and produced by Carey Anderson, directed by Richard Wallace. Lloyd Hughes plays the leading masculine role opposite Miss Dove—adv.

Kippi Ki-Yi

I was playing in the road in front of the High School today when I nearly met with a terrible accident. The newly acquired Dodge coupe owned by Miss Wass and Miss Stevens of the H. S. Faculty jumped most violently into reverse in response to Miss Wass' stepping too heavily on the gas, and just missed me by 4 of an inch. After this I'm going to ask her to let me ride inside. I think it's safer.

Talk about this weather being bad for cats, it had for the football squad too! They practiced in the rain the other day and then had to leave their football suits down by the fire room door so that the janitor could dry them out. The next morning when he went to get them a horrible sight met his eyes. The fire-box and suits were covered with water! When it rains, it pours!

I've been trying to make Mrs. Howard let me join the Girls' Glee Club but she says my voice isn't good enough. I did sneak in long enough to hear the election of officers though. They are: President, Mary Bird; vice president, Ruth Lawrence; secretary, Norma Hutchinson; treasurer, Carol Flanagan; librarians, Angelina Mazzeo, Phyllis Spencer, Thelma Blackington and Cynthia Wasgatt.

Some of the football regulars went to Augusta yesterday to see the City High boys play. Capt. Traflet said I might go but just before they left I got sent to Mr. Verrill's office for playing with paper in the halls—so I missed the trip.

The building was very cold yesterday. My teeth shivered so that I broke off a front tooth. I'm going to sue the janitor or somebody for damages.

The Press Club members have to work hard. Some of them stayed until 7 o'clock Friday night printing the paper.

EVERYBODY KNOWS SI

Concerning Popular Conductor Who Took First Regular Train Across Bridge.

The first regular train to cross the Carlton bridge from Bath to Woolwich Monday morning was in charge of a veteran of the Maine Central railroad, Silas H. Anderson of Lewiston. For more than a century "Si" was known as a brakeman, but he is now affectionately known by his hundreds of friends and acquaintances has run in all parts of the state, but just before he looked upon as a fixture on the Lewiston-Rockland run, passing through Bath in the morning and returning in the afternoon.

His first job was on a brakeman, and he was on the same train of which today he is the conductor. This train leaves Lewiston at 7 a. m. going to Bath and Rockland and returning to Lewiston in the afternoon. He was out on that run for a number of years and in 1883 was promoted to Central coachman over the old European and North American railway, he went East and between Bangor and Vanceboro during that year and 1883. In 1890 he was on the Lewiston and Farmington run. He handled trains between Skowhegan and Portland and Bangor and Portland. He was made conductor on June 10, 1890.

"Si" Anderson is good natured, polite and never presuming. Always he has a cheery good morning and his manner of asking for tickets is never brusque. If he is sleeping when the ticket-taking time comes "Si" will wake him in such a gentle way that there can be no complaint.

"Yours is the next station, lady." How many times have those who ride on his train heard him say that to some woman who has been fussed for she will miss her destination. There are some conductors who seem to feel they are being imposed upon if asked concerning a train connection on some division other than that upon which they run. Not so with "Si." It is rather interesting to note that when Joseph E. Anderson retired from the service, the total number of years which he and his son, Silas, had worked for the Maine Central was 91.

Although his personality took a quiet trend, he was a most interesting conversationalist, displaying deep knowledge on a surprising range of topics. The only organization to which he belonged at the time of his death was the Modern Woodmen.

He is survived by his second wife, whose maiden name was Lena Ulmer. The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the interment will be in Achern cemetery.

ARMY AND NAVY GAME

The Army and Navy game this year is to be played in Philadelphia. We'll all be there, if the batteries hold out.—Oct. 22 item in The Courier-Gazette.

Commander D. W. Fuller comments: "It's all the same on the radio but one will find Philadelphia quite deserted by the Army and Navy on Nov. 26. The game is scheduled at the Polo Grounds, New York City."

GEORGE K. MERRILL

Well-Known Citizen Who Had Filled the Office of Assessor.

George K. Merrill, who was known internationally as an authority on lichens and who also had the reputation of being one of the best checker players in the State, died at his home, 84 Rankin street, yesterday, after an illness which had lasted through the summer.

The deceased was born in Lewiston 63 years ago. He attended Harvard University, but yielded to the lure of the photographer's vocation, which he followed in this city for nearly 30 years. He retired about ten years ago, and served seven years as a member of the board of assessors.

He easily ranked as the best checker player, and at one time virtually held the championship of the State. Expert checker players from all over the country had visited his studio and home, and were not only amazed at his knowledge of the game, but revealed in the wonderful collection of books, ancient and modern, which he accumulated on this subject. He was particularly expert in solving intricate problems.

His collection of lichens is said by naturalists to be almost priceless. The Smithsonian Institute and Yale University were among the many institutions which maintained a regular correspondence with him, and sought the benefit of his expert knowledge.

Upon learning of his critical illness William R. Moxon of the Smithsonian wrote this to Mrs. Merrill: "It was indeed a pleasure to have met him and to be able to tell him at first hand how greatly we appreciate the cooperation extended by him so freely in our botanical work for many years past in the identification of the lichen material which has come to us. It has been a very great assistance indeed."

Mr. Merrill was an ardent lover of the national game, and until illness prevented it, early in the summer was one of the first patrons at Community Park on the day that a game was to be played. During his illness he read with much interest this paper's reports of the Maine Coast League games, and expressed much regret that he was not able to see them.

Although his personality took a quiet trend, he was a most interesting conversationalist, displaying deep knowledge on a surprising range of topics. The only organization to which he belonged at the time of his death was the Modern Woodmen.

EDMUND S. COWING

Death of Edmund S. Cowing, 87, which took place last Saturday at the National Soldiers' Home in Togus, marks the passing of a Civil War veteran who was born in this city and resided here many years. He worked principally in the lime quarries for the late Samuel Pillsbury, Col. W. P. Hurley and the Cobb Lime Company.

He was an expert boxer, and in the strenuous work which marked his period of employment in the quarries was a participant in some memorable fistie battles which will be recalled without difficulty by older residents.

From this city he moved to Spruce Head, where he was employed as quartermaster by the Bodwell Granite Company. He entered the National Soldiers' Home about 15 years ago.

He served as a private in the Fourth Maine Regiment and to his deathbed carried a bullet which lodged in one of his lungs during a battle. He was a member of Edwin Libby Post, G. A. R. Many will remember him as a man of kindheartedness and a loyal citizen.

The burial was at Spruce Head.

Capt. and Mrs. Albert Combs were in town this week, enroute to their home in New York after visiting relatives at Isle au Haut.

The Knox and Lincoln Past Grands' Association in conjunction with the Past Noble Grands' Association will visit Round Pond tonight with supper.

Class 26 of the Methodist Church held a business session and social evening at the home of Mrs. Asenath Achorn, Lindsey street, Thursday night with 22 present. Refreshments added to the jollification.

On the deck of the rose editor this 29th day of October appears a gorgeous rose in full bloom, accompanied by an aspiring bud. They are from that Grasse and Terpilz bush in the garden of E. R. Cobb, previously mentioned.

The Fuller-Cobb-Davis "crowd" will hold a jollification in Union next Wednesday night with supper at the new Masonic hall served by the Eastern Star, followed by a dance in the Union town hall. The store group and invited friends will make up an expected attendance of 75.

The American Legion Auxiliary gave a Halloween party Monday night at their hall to the members following the regular business meeting. Members wore costumes, keeping with the season, and lunch was served. Mrs. Anne Snow, department president gave a very interesting account of her trip to Paris.

The personnel of U. S. C. G. Base 16 are giving to their Rockland friends a farewell dance next Tuesday evening at the Arcade with Starline's orchestra and refreshments. The officers and men of the base take this opportunity to thank the merchants and citizens of Rockland for their many courtesies.

Two Rockland girls and one Camden boy form Knox County's quota on the dean's list at the University of Maine—Miss Martha Wasagott is a sophomore at the University and a member of the Chi Omega fraternity. She is taking the Home Economics course. Miss Katherine A. Veazie is an Arts major of the class of 1930, and a member of the Delta Zeta fraternity. Charles K. Hooper '30 is a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and a student in the College of Technology.

Bath Times: Ralph Wright, John O. Moulton, August Walters, Fred S. Curtis, Henry G. Hodgdon and Rev. David L. Wilson motored to Rockland Wednesday afternoon to be present at the reception tendered by Claremont Commandery, Knights Templar, to the grand commander Edward K. Gould. There was a splendid parade of Templars through the streets of Rockland and at a Masonic Temple in the evening the unusual scene was observed of the grand commander knighting his own son.

Attention is called by the W. C. T. U. to the fact that next Sunday Oct. 30 is designated as World Temperance Sunday and it is urged that all Sunday school teachers and superintendents of departments, will make some observance in their program for the day. It is also desired that pastors will make allusion to the subject from their pulpits. "While we as a people are enjoying the peace and prosperity of this country, it is the secretary, 'let us turn our hearts and prayers for this brief time to the many of other lands who are suffering the burdens and sorrows of intemperance. May we help hasten the day when the white ribbon of Peace, Purity and Prohibition shall be wound around the world."

At a special meeting of the City Council last night the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. was given the right to set poles on Front street. B. F. Colcord appeared in the interest of a permit for a building just north of Strand Theatre in which he purposes to operate a lunch room. Entire good will toward Mr. Colcord and his project was expressed but the board split sharply on the desirability of a wooden structure of that size on Main street and on the ability of the municipal officers to prevent the maintaining of the building, which is already on the lot. It was built in Rockport, hauled to this city and placed on the lot, corner of Main and Winter streets, where an addition was added. The matter was tabled until the November meeting for investigation on motion of Alderman Richardson.

Rotarians at yesterday's luncheon enjoyed a half-hour of relaxation in the shape of entertainment put forward through the program committee drafting a group of club members noted for histrionic talent. Thus a male quartet, H. F. Blodgett, C. M. Kallio, H. G. Gundy and Daniel Snow sang "Sweet Adeline" as it never had been sung before; W. C. Bird and E. L. Brown appeared in buck and wing dancing; R. E. Thurston, J. A. Jameson, Ray Eaton and W. A. Glover performed an old-time quadrille, each with an imaginary partner, to the violin of W. C. Ladd and the tin of C. M. Richardson, and H. E. Robinson as prompter; Fred L. Liniken, one hand injured, gave a masterly exhibition of removing his collar and tie and then restoring them, all done with the left hand; Dr. Ellingwood disclosed unsuspected talent with the violin; and the conclusion saw A. F. McAlary and A. C. McLean in a squared circle, with all its accompaniments of seconds, referee, timer, etc., give a performance with the gloves unequalled since Tunney defeated Dempsey. The decision went to McAlary on a foul, though to the audience it looked more like three strikes. As a piece of clever fooling the program was concluded well done. Rotarians Carl Sonntag of Missouri and Fred W. Glover of Charlotte, N. C., were visitors and J. Fred Knight and Frederick W. Powers were guests.

Turning the dial Thursday night revealed a great variety of stations, which seemed to increase as the night lengthened. One of the features of the evening was the program given in honor of "New Day," Commander Richard E. Byrd of North Pole fame had a most interesting message.
The stations which I identified Thursday night were: WCAU, WBZ, WEEL, WNAC, WEAF, WJZ, WGY, WABC, WPG, WCBZ, WGBS, WNCA, WTAM, WOR, KYW and KOKA.
The Standard Oil Company is planning to broadcast a series of half hour entertainments, consisting partly of music by famous singers, and partly by brief and interesting travel news about New York State and New England. It is not unlikely that Rockland and vicinity will gain recognition.

Operating a new 6-tube Kolster Hilliard R. Spear of Warren logged 36 stations between 9 p. m. Thursday and 2 a. m. Friday—KYW, WEAF, WJAR, WJZ, WEEL, WJR, WBSH, WOR, WTAM, WIN, WBSM, WGY, WNAC, WSM, WBZ, WABC, KDKA, WGN, WPG, WLW, WOC, WCAU, WEHS, WQOW, WSCB, WHFC, WLIS, WENR, WGBS, WHAD, WLTS, WJAZ, WAAT, WWRL and WJST. "I might have picked up a few more but I did not care to mess the red network's Clicknet Club Ekimo's and the Navy Day Program," writes Mr. Spear.

ROTARY AT CAMDEN
Clubs of the Penobscot District Enjoy a Successful Get-together.
Another event in Rotary history was scored Thursday evening in Camden when the four clubs of Penobscot Bay district—Camden, Belfast, Rockland and Damariscotta—gathered in joint session. One hundred and fifty Rotarians and Rotary Anns sat down to a lobster supper, served in Masonic Temple. The tables were attractively decorated in Halloween colors with vegetables and crepe paper. Preceding the supper was a social hour. Camden proved an ideal host.

Millard Long, toastmaster in the absence of President E. E. Boynton, introduced W. W. Dodge, president of the Damariscotta-Newcastle club, William A. Cobb of Belfast and R. S. Sherman of Rockland, each responding in pleasing fashion. Zelma M. Drival was introduced as the speaker of the evening, and for 20 minutes held the undivided attention of the entire gathering. A special feature was the playing of Dean's Orchestra during the supper hour and for the dancing which followed. A prime mover of the general good time was song leader William Davis of Belfast, under whose able direction everyone sang, even some who were never known to sing before.

A stunt by the Belfast Agony Quartet was a riot of fun. A musical reading by Miss Beulah Rokes of Rockland and a soprano solo by Mrs. Avon Ames of Camden were highly enjoyed. Dancing with Marcus Chandler as floor director followed the program until a late hour. The affair was one of the most enjoyable that Rotary has engaged in. It would be difficult to find more genial and efficient hosts than this Camden club with their Rotary Anns. Every visitor spent a joyous evening. Rockland representation numbered about 50, Damariscotta a dozen and a large number from Belfast. All those who were unable to be present missed a fine occasion.

FUND IS TOO LARGE
Col. Gardiner gubernatorial Candidate Discusses State Finances.

Col. William Tudor Gardiner, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, speaking to the Sebec Women's Club Thursday evening, said "there should be no secrets from the people."
Discussing State finances, he told his audience that the present contingent fund of the executive is now the only fund that is not added.

"I believe this is wrong," he said, "and I believe the fund is too large. In addition to a salary of $5000, provision for office expenses, and provision for maintenance of the Blaine House, the executive has at his disposal a 'contingent fund' which formerly amounted to $10,000 a year and which has been raised to the sum of $15,000 per year."
Col. Gardiner said it did not seem to him in keeping with a sound financial and economic program to have the sum of $15,000 raised by taxation, spent annually without the knowledge of the taxpayers, or even the State auditor, as to the purposes for which it went.

SLANDER IS ALLEGED
Knox-Lincoln Farm Bureau Leader Appears As One Of the Defendants
A special despatch from Wiscasset says:
Suits alleging slander filed in the Lincoln County Supreme Court by Rev. John L. Stoddard, pastor of the Baptist Church at Nobleboro, against the Rev. Lyman E. Carter, a former pastor, and Miss Ida Bennett, also of Nobleboro, have been continued at the request of the plaintiff.
The ad damnum in the action against Mr. Carter was $10,000, while that in the suit against Miss Bennett was $2,000.
Mr. Stoddard, who is about 35 years old and has a family, in his writ alleges that Mr. Carter made a serious charge against him, and he also asserts that Miss Bennett made a certain statement about him.
Mr. Carter, who is about 70 years old, preached at the Nobleboro Baptist Church several years ago. Subsequently he returned to that town to make his home.
Miss Bennett is one of the project leaders of the Knox-Lincoln Farm Bureau.

NORTH HOPE

Willard Wentworth motored from his home in Massachusetts Saturday and joined his family at the home of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hall, where she and the children have been staying while her mother was a patient at Knox Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wentworth of Massachusetts and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hall of Appleton motored to Livermore Sunday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Wentworth's brother-in-law, Arthur Phillips, who married Miss Jennie Hall of this place. Mr. Phillips was a fine young man and had a large circle of friends. Many expressions of sympathy are heard for the relatives and immediate family.

Hilltop Club Celebrates

Hilltop Club met with Mr. and Mrs. George A. Hall Saturday afternoon and evening. This was the first meeting of the season and was a very successful occasion. The ladies met in the afternoon and while some assisted the hostess with the tables and last minute decorations, others knotted a comforter.

The rooms were tastefully decorated in Halloween style, black and orange. Crepe paper streamers with black cats, witches, yellow pumpkins, Jack o' lanterns, red berries, red and yellow flowers and autumn leaves. Orange colored napkins decorated with black cats and witches carried out the color scheme. The assorted candy which was later served as evening refreshments was also in shades of orange and chocolate brown.

At 6 o'clock the men began to arrive, bringing the proverbial country appetites, some declaring they had been fasting in anticipation of this event, for well they knew the wonderful Hilltop menu. The main dish and first course is always baked beans, brown bread and white bread with various kinds of pickles and relishes. Then come pies, and this time there were eight different kinds, cakes of all kinds, makes and colors, plain, frosted, gaily decorated and candle lighted, doughnuts and coffee. While the ladies cleared the long tables, the men repaired to the smoking room and enjoyed the smoking and the social hour.

The program followed including singing, "America," by the club; recitations, solos, readings and stories, all of which were much enjoyed. Miss Gladys Bennett gave an interesting record of last year's club meetings.

Mr. Hall's paper the "Flip Flop" was full of peppy news and comments. Sympathy was expressed for our Hilltop sister, Mrs. Lona Hall, and all were pleased to know she had safely passed through a critical operation and was now convalescing at her home.

There were violin solos by Allie Wellman and Kenneth Bennett, recitation, Evelyn Mariner; readings, Addie Mariner, Marilla Burnett and Ivie Bennett; stories by several members. The accompanying original lines were read by Mrs. A. I. Perry, after which, those who enjoyed cards filled several tables and the rest passed a social hour until it was time to break ranks, when all joined in singing "God Be With You 'Till We Meet Again" and expressions of appreciation and good will were made to the host and hostess for the happy and successful evening.

The autumn in all its glory and riot of color is here: The earth is strewn with a carpet. That soon will be brown and red; The maple in shades of scarlet; And yellow and golden brown; Like a flaming torch on the hillside Proclaims that summer has flown.

The pumpkins are piled in the storehouse. The corn is now in the shock. And the busy housewife looks with pride On many a jar and crock. Filled to the brim. And the winter With its chilly air soon will be here. But this is our Hilltop cheer. And we welcome its friendly cheer.

So, after our busy summer, With its hustle and bustle and care, How nice to greet each neighbor again And sit in a Hilltop chair. At the wonderful Hilltop supper. While the neighborly spirit and cheer Envelops each one like a mantle. And makes us all glad we are here.

Tho' we meet tonight in gladness And thankful for favors shown, We do not forget those of our band Whose pathway with sorrow is strewn. And so from our hearts over-flowing We send them a message of cheer: On wings of thought we send them out To each friend and neighbor dear.

A kindly deed in its season, A hand-clasp, a cheery smile, All help us bear life's burdens, As we carry on the while. There will always be clouds and sadness, For the world with sorrow is rife, Into each life some rain must fall, Thus we value the sunshine of life.

So, after our busy summer, With its hustle and bustle and care, How nice to greet each neighbor again And sit in a Hilltop chair. At the wonderful Hilltop supper. While the neighborly spirit and cheer Envelops each one like a mantle. And makes us all glad we are here.

SPRUCE HEAD

There will be a praise and preaching service at Union chapel Sunday evening, Nov. 6, at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. John W. Poole of Union will conduct this service and it is hoped that he may be accompanied by several others from Union who will help to make the service interesting. Mr. Poole is a very earnest young preacher and he comes to us with a splendid message, one that will be of benefit to all who come to this service. The whole community is invited. Should it be stormy on that date the service will be postponed to Nov. 13, at the same hour, 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Sydney Thompson of this place has gone to Brighton, Mass. to visit her sister Mrs. H. H. Griffin for a few days.

Frank Wall has been having some carpenter work done on his store to make it more comfortable for winter.

Mrs. George Snow who has been in poor health for some weeks is slowly improving and now able to get out a little.

Merrill Simmons has bought a splendid pair of heavy horses to do team-work. They are finely matched in size, also in color, a dark chestnut.

The new Sunday school at the chapel is all ready for work, the supplies have been given out and the teachers are all on hand, but—

"Where are the scholars?" This is the question which was asked last Sunday. Only two small classes, and one lone boy in a class by himself, while there are children enough in the village to fill the chapel every Sunday. Every one should realize that there can be no Sunday school unless mothers will either come and bring their children or at least send them to spend one-half hour each week for instruction.

Beverly, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Simmons, who has been very ill is reported as much better.

William L. Williamson is working for Mr. Hall at the Big Landing loading pulp wood.

Edmund Cowing, a former resident of Spruce Head, died at the Soldiers Home, Togus, last Saturday. The remains were brought here for burial.

Mrs. Stanley Simmons has had a new radio installed at her home which is a source of great enjoyment to the whole family.

Burton-Herbolzheimer The following interesting news is taken from the Wakefield, (Mass.) Daily Item of Oct. 25:

Miss Alice Benson Herbolzheimer, daughter of Chris Herbolzheimer, 20 Pierce street, Reading, and sister of Fred Herbolzheimer of 33 Richardson avenue, Wakefield, became the bride of Herman Vesper Burton, son of Mrs. Annie M. Burton, of Spruce Head, Maine, Monday evening at an attractive ceremony at the home of the bride.

The marriage took place at 7 o'clock and Rev. Wellington C. Pickett of the Starrett Memorial Church, Athol, formerly of Reading, was the officiating clergyman. The double ring service was used. Miss Alice Flinders of Stoneham, cousin of the bride, played the wedding march.

A particularly interesting feature connected with the ceremony was that the matron of honor, Mrs. Arthur J. Allen of Natick, sister of the bride, celebrated the tenth anniversary of her marriage, Monday, and the bride on that occasion acted as maid of honor at her sister's marriage. The best man was William A. Herbolzheimer, of Reading, brother of the bride.

The bride's gown was of white georgette trimmed with satin and Duchess lace and the matron of honor wore an ostrich trimmed pink tulle gown.

The house was handsomely decorated in pink and red roses and the mother of the bridegroom, father of the bride, and attendants assisted the couple at the reception which followed the marriage ceremony.

Mrs. Annie Burton and Mrs. Edgar L. Newhall of Rockland, Maine, mother and sister, respectively, of

A WORD OF ETHYL

Thurston Oil Co. Is Pushing Famous New High Compression Gas.

The recent announcement of several of the largest motor car manufacturers who have developed high compression motors for their 1928 models, specifically for the use of the new "no-knock" gasolines, has focused the attention of the motoring world and the public on that type of fuel.

Everybody has heard that metallic "ping-ping" which occurs when an automobile is laboring up a hill or is called on for a quick pick-up.

Some call it an "engine knock." Others call it a "spark knock." Few know what it really is. But all know that it worries the driver, racks the engine, cuts down power, and entails the expense and nuisance of frequent carbon removal. And all wish that that pestiferous "knock" could be knocked out. It can. Ethyl Gasoline "knocks out that knock."

The story of Ethyl Gasoline begins about 15 years ago. Charles F. Kettering, president of the General Motors Research Laboratories and the man who had just introduced battery ignition and self-starters to the motor world, set out to discover the cause of detonation or "knocking" in internal combustion engines. Noticeable since the first days of motor transportation, "knocking" had become more pronounced with the use of the heavier gasoline which refiners had been compelled to introduce in order to meet the growing demand for motor fuel.

The first job of Mr. Kettering and his associates was to find out just what happens in a gasoline engine when it is "knocking." Since this involved an action occurring inside a closed cylinder, at a very high temperature and in minute fractions of a second, special instruments had to be invented.

It was a long and painstaking task, but it was a task of tremendous consequence to the oil and automotive worlds, for it led to this discovery: It is the fuel and not the engine or ignition that "knocks." In short, scientific research found that the "knock" is actually caused by the too rapid combustion of gasoline in the cylinders, with the result that there is an accumulation of high pressure waves which strike against the cylinder walls so violently as to produce an audible metallic sound.

It found, too, that while some gasolines "knock" more than others, all gasolines "knock" as the compression of the engine is increased. (Carbon deposits increase compression by decreasing the size of the combustion chamber.)

Having established that gasoline is to blame for that "knock," Mr. Kettering and his colleagues in the General Motors Research Laboratories undertook the second step—the elimination of that "knock." This phase of the research was entrusted to Thomas F. Midegley, Jr., assisted by T. A. Boyd.

It was at first determined that the worst "knocking" gasolines—even kerosene, in fact—could be rendered "knockless" by the addition of certain ingredients, the first of which was iodine.

To be commercially practicable, an "anti-knock" ingredient must be such that it can be produced most prove itself to be harmless and sold at a cost which makes the gasoline treated with it available to every motorist—and it to the motor and all its parts.

In its economic aspects, Ethyl Gasoline is more than a better fuel for present-day automobiles. It is a fuel which operates without "knocking" in engines of higher compression, thereby making possible smaller motors, delivering more power with less fuel consumption.

It is used by racing car drivers throughout the country in order to obtain the maximum motor revolutions and, in fact, has made possible small displacement, high compression racing cars now in use. Similarly, Ethyl Gasoline is the fuel used to run the latest type of airplanes of the U. S. Navy.

As an instrument for the further development of motor transportation and the conservation of petroleum resources, Ethyl Gasoline is of great economic value. And the combination of its pres-

THOMASTON

Reference was made in this column recently to changes in Edward Anderson's home. What the brain conceived the hand has executed. The door that gave entrance to the kitchen has been closed and one cut in the center of the partition. The lunch counter which extended from east to west across the room has been made into one of horseshoe form and two stalls also built on the eastern side. A toilet and lavatory have been constructed which convenience the traveling public will appreciate. All pipes have been enclosed, the walls and ceiling brightened with paint of light shades and new tables with marble tops were added this season. All things combined makes Anderson's Cafe a very attractive eating place. A change that has also attracted attention is the opening of the door in the Knox street side of the block giving entrance directly to the kitchen. This change eliminates the necessity of the grocery clerk, the milkman and the ice man having to pass through the cafe with their goods. Mr. Anderson informed the correspondent that the past season had been his best for business.

Lucy B. Tobey and Miss Delia Bickmore went to Boston Thursday where they will spend the winter.

Miss Alida Hyler left for Portland Thursday to visit her sister for a few days.

Richard Elliot, Donald George and Charles Shore arrived home Wednesday from their hunting trip. Each one brought home a deer.

Miss Dorothy Starrett is visiting friends in Bath.

A. D. Davis and A. W. Hatch struck out at 4 o'clock Thursday morning for Bangor to attend a Masonic meeting.

Judge Frank B. Miller will be the speaker at the Baptist church Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, subject, "Is Protestantism A Dying Religion?"

The Girl Scouts held a Halloween party at the farm of John Creighton on the banks of the Georges River Thursday evening.

Manville Davis and Miss Josephine Davis of New Harbor and Miss Josephine Davis of Monhegan called at H. B. Shaw's this week.

The Baptist Sunday School will have a Halloween party in the vestry Monday evening at 7 o'clock. A roll call of the members of the Baptist Church brought together a company approaching in numbers closely to three figures. The ages ranged from 11 to 83 years, with a response by letter from the oldest member of the church who is 89 years. The members present in length of connection was Miss Mary L. Jones. The response from non-resident members although not as many as in former years added interest to the occasion. Singing of familiar hymns and setting a mark for attainment in the different departments of church and Sunday school filled the time. Refreshments were served. The church now has a membership of 208 and the Sunday school 192.

Fales Circle of the G. A. R. will meet with Mrs. Susie Newbert, High street Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. The Beta Alpha will meet with Miss Christine Moore at 7 o'clock Monday evening.

The residents of Thomaston have been quite disturbed over depredations by some of its youth recently which culminated in the robbery of $1,000 from the home of Alder Merrill this week. The suspects have been caught and most of the money recovered.

The harvest supper given by the Ladies Circle of the Congregational church Wednesday was a great success, socially and financially, as well as gastronomically. In the church annex, this event, celebrated for many years, has become a festival which is anticipated with pleasure and remembered with satisfaction. This year, the society seemed to do a little better than its best, and this was added in great part by the lavish display of beautiful dahlias given by Fred Brown and so artistically arranged by Miss Margaret Rugles on tables, walls and windows that the vestry was a bower of beauty. Also, a dainty, personal touch was given by the little bouquets pinned to the white table cloths. The circle president, was in charge of the general arrangements, and, as hostess, graciously welcomed the guests. The kitchen was under the efficient supervision of Mrs. Allea Watts with an able corps of assistants. Miss Margaret Johnson and Miss Anna Dillingham were in charge of the tables and dining room where plenty of delectable viands, including Girl Scouts gave fine service. Guests present numbered 137 and about $70 was added to the treasury. There were a number of new faces and several hostesses took advantage of the occasion to entertain super parties. Altogether, it was such an enjoyable occasion that those who attended are looking forward to the next Harvest Supper.

BARLOW SCHOOLHOUSE 1885-1927

[A Revere]
Dear old Barlow schoolhouse—
Thou memories fond you bring,
That soon will be but echoes
Of a happy childhood
When we would roam the truth.

When a happy, carefree maiden,
Along life's fair pathway sped;
Saw a future rich and rosy
By a man not now alive.
Truly God in all his wisdom
Shows a picture bright and fair
When he fills the days with pleasure,
Hides the morrow's dark despair.

Oh, how well do I remember
Back in eighteen eighty-five,
When your four white walls were built,
By a man not now alive.
Little did I think, dear Barlow,
As I entered those doors
To attend the first term taught there Ere I left to go no more.

That in four years I'd come back
Like a lost sheep to the fold—
Enter through the very doorway
That I entered again to mold;
Walk along the self-same aisles,
Sit upon the self-same seats,
To watch the same old children—
Truly "History does itself repeat."

Little thought I in my childhood
When I trudged along the way,
Eager after books and knowledge,
That there ever came a day
When we would fill the honor—
For a hard full many a year
To teach the last term taught there
Within your walls so dear.

That I'd close the door, and lock it,
Behind a troop of childish feet,
Going out beneath its portals—
That there ever came a day
When I'd think, dear Barlow,
That you'd ever cease to be
The place where we were built for
By older ones than we.

You have "done your bit," dear Barlow—
You have sheltered many men
Who will sing your praises ever
For the thought that came again:
When they know you're cold, deserted,
N'er a childish voice will hear,
That will pause and murmur woe,
Backward turn full many a year.

And there'll come a time of sadness
With the pleasant thoughts of yore:
Barlow schoolhouse closed, neglected—
Just a memory holding more.
Clara S. Overlook.
Washington, Oct. 12.

CONSOLIDATION PLAN
Attempt to Unite Granite Interests of Barre, Vt., Under One Head

A plan to consolidate the granite manufacturing plants of Barre, Vt., under a $20,000,000 corporation was announced by Maurice B. Dean of New York, representing New York interests.

Mr. Dean said that Lybrand, Ross Brothers and Montgomery of New York had been named to do the auditing work and that Coats and Burchard of Chicago were the appraisers named. Deane C. Davis is local attorney for the proposed consolidation move. Mr. Dean has been in Barre several weeks conferring with the individual manufacturers and said that he had seen more than 65 manufacturers from whom he received much encouragement.

"The Barre granite industry," he said, "represents a distinctive national resource of proven stability and national reputation. It employs highly skilled craftsmen and does a large annual business but on a keenly competitive basis. A consolidation is badly needed in this industry to take advantage of modern production and merchandizing methods."

"The consolidation plan is meeting with unanimous approval because it is based on a benefit to the entire industry without special advantage to any group of owners and without antagonism to any related business interests."

We have about decided in case we ever abandon the principles of a lifetime and enter politics, to be Mayor of New York, instead of President of the United States, and as not to have to work—Ohio State Journal.

Miss Ellen Buttemer entertained the Ladies Auxiliary of St. Peter's Church at her home on Clarendon street, Thursday evening.

One of the most successful affairs ever given at the Country Club was the dance last evening with Dr. and Mrs. William Ellingwood in charge. The rooms were effectively decorated with Jack-o-lanterns, scarecrows, witches and burning cauldrons, corn stalks, ears of corn in vases and other Halloween trappings in an orange and black color scheme. When the guests began to assemble they were greeted in dimly lighted rooms by the members of the committee masked and garbed in sheets and pillow cases. Following the grand march the committee unmasked, revealing Dr. and Mrs. Ellingwood, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Conley, Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy Crane. Music was furnished by a picked orchestra under the direction of Luther Clark of Thomaston, all in robe costumes. Many old-fashioned dances were called off in true old-fashioned style by Charlie Woodcock. Refreshments echoed the Halloween occasion—elder apples, popcorn and doughnuts. There were about 80 guests present.

At the home of Norma Seavey, 57 Pleasant street yesterday, 17 little guests helped celebrate her eighth birthday. Music, games and a peanut hunt passed the time until the all important hour of refreshments, which included a birthday cake, containing prizes which fell to Dorothy Merriam and Gladys Collins. Mrs. Alta Dimick assisted in serving. The young hostess received many gifts.

This Week

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A review from the columns of this paper of some of the events which interested Rockland and vicinity for three weeks ending Oct. 18, 1902.

Thomas E. Shea was appearing at Farwell Opera House in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Lumber freights took a violent slump, because there were so many coasting vessels in the trade. The freight from Savannah to New York was $5.

A packed house saw a performance of "The Christian" at Farwell Opera House.

Charles T. Spear made a misstep when he undertook to jump from the steamship City of Rockland at Searsport and falling backward he struck head foremost against the steamer's rail and went into the bay. He was unconscious when he reached the surface, and was saved by Alton Lindsey, a deckhand who swam 500 feet and held him up until a boat arrived.

William A. Holman resigned as clerk at the North National Bank, and joined the staff of the First National Bank of Portland.

The winter train schedule was in effect, with Albert W. Hodgkins, Frank Leizer and William Jones as conductors and Benjamin S. Whitehouse, John York and Otis Bowden as engineers. Thomas McLaughlin was agent at the Maine Central Station, with F. C. Dearborn as cashier, A. W. McCurdy as ticket-seller and bill clerk, C. E. Crowley as night operator, Eugene Harrington as freight checker, Roy M. Hathaway as freight handler, Frank S. Head as baggage master, Maynard Willis as car cleaner and George F. Sweetser as coal heaver and signal tender.

John L. Donohue in a debate at Berry Bros' office, alleged that the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York employed 1500 hands. A telegram was sent to the manager. The reply was that there were just 1467 names on the payroll, but that in summer several hundred extra hands were employed; so both won.

Edward Robinson sold his residence at Ingraham Hill and moved to Newport, Me.

A flashing light was substituted for the two red lights on the end of Rockland Breakwater.

Capt. I. E. Archibald sold the steamer Merryconeg to Capt. W. D. Bennett for service on the Camden and Bucksport route.

Charles T. Smalley was elected president of the entering class of University of Maine Law School.

J. H. Wiggin was again located on Main street, having taken the store vacated by Spear & May. Mr. Wiggin became established in the drug business in June 1873, when with E. H. Rose he succeeded to the business of C. P. Fessenden. He bought Mr. Rose's interest a year or two later.

W. J. Coakley druggist was giving a ton of coal to the person guessing the nearest to the number of lumps in a filled hod on display in his store. The coal strike was on and coal was scarce.

The annual excursion to the State Prison brought about 700 passengers. Capt. Ernest W. Gray, who had been superintendent of barges for the Lime Company, died in August.

Miss Helen A. Knowlton attended the Woman's Suffrage convention in Maine and delivered an address on "The Woman in Law." She was entertained at the home of ex-Gov. Fairfield.

At the semi-annual teachers convention in this city Capt. George C. Minard was elected president. Frank B. Miller gave an address on "Truant Law."

Schooner William Bisbee, with a gross tonnage of 209, and built for Capt. John Bernet was launched from Snow's yard, being christened by Miss Evelyn Bernet.

Rev. J. W. Thomas moved to Massachusetts.

C. U. Keen sold the Art & Wall Paper Co.'s business to John D. May. C. E. Goulding had the contract for building a new church in Union.

Mrs. R. C. Hall was elected president of the W. C. T. U.

John Tibbets entered New York University Bellevue Hospital Medical College.

Steamer City of Bangor struck the southwestern point of Monhegan, slid off into deep water, and was beached by Capt. Arey at Lobster Cove.

H. M. Walker, who had been working for the Star, joined the United States Band which had an engagement at Mechanics Fair.

Charles W. Brann, 15-year-old son of Henry Brann of Winter street, was drowned near Ash Island when his boat capsized.

These births were recorded: Rockland, Sept. 22, to Mr. and Mrs. Mildred Ryan has resumed her duties with Fuller-Cobb-Davis following a two weeks' vacation spent in Boston, Augusta and Waterville.

Mrs. Emma L. Merry of Boothbay Harbor is the guest of Miss Annie Maen, Pacific street.

Mrs. Rosa Briggs of Providence has returned home after spending a week with Mrs. Ward, Maverick street.

Fifty or more members of the Woman's Educational Club enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Edw. B. Hall, at Warrenton Park, Thursday afternoon and evening. Rev. Walter S. Rounds was the speaker and gave an interesting talk on "Elements of the Strength and Weakness of Our Democracy." Mrs. Mary Perry Rich, the president, proved her ability as a club leader by her forceful arguments and manner of handling the different topics of discussion. A picnic supper was served, augmented by Mrs. Hall's fish chowder, with real cream added. Little Barbara Murray naively recited "What the Little Boy Saw" and "Johnny's Toothbrush" and sang the little song "Good Night." Mrs. S. J. Baker of Utica, N. Y., Mrs. Mary Hall and Mrs. Alice Sprague were guests. A rising vote of thanks was given Mr. and Mrs. Hall.

R. H. Cassens, a son, Rudolph Fillmore, Vinalhaven, Sept. 22, to Mr. and Mrs. Robert White, a son. Cushing, Sept. 21, to Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Miller, a daughter. When I put Bird's Paroid Roofing on—it's there to stay!

I've seen warehouses, garages, farm buildings, and factories that were covered with Bird's Paroid over twenty years ago that are still in perfect condition. You simply can't wear it out, that's why I'm putting it on these new buildings.

Bird's Paroid Roofing is waterproof and spark-proof with a heavy, pliable, bright-gray surface which will not crack in cold or dry out in hot weather. It has been used and endorsed for over a quarter of a century. Paroid is an exclusive Bird Product.

Paroid Roofing is made by Bird & Son, Inc. (Est. 1795), manufacturers of Neponset Twin Shingles, Bird's Shingle Design Roofing, Art-Craft Roll Roofing, Neponset Black Building Paper, Bird's Insulating Blanket and Neponset Board. There's a Bird product for every sort of building.

We are headquarters for Bird's roofings, building papers and wall board.

THE REALM OF MUSIC

Gladys St. Clair Morgan

I have talked with Wendell Clarke, son of Mrs. Louise L. Clarke of Chestnut street, who represented Rockland at the recent Atwater-Kent audition in Portland. He is 18, a senior in High School. Although a resident of Rockland but a short time, he has attracted attention by his musical ability, having sung in the First Baptist choir. He was one of the principals of the R. H. S. senior play, "College Days." He has a baritone voice of considerable power and promise and recently began study with Mrs. Coppink.

It looked for a time as if Rockland had no one to send to the audition, but when Clarke was heard by a committee from the Rubinstein Club it was felt he was a worthy representative, as he complied with all the announced conditions.

Through the kindness of Col. E. K. Gould and son Charles, he was able to motor to and from Portland. He reported to WCHS station at 2 o'clock for practice. He was present at the dinner given at the Congress Square Hotel at night. There were speeches from many of the "big guns," among whom was Miss Julia Noyes, who had charge of the audition, which began at 8 o'clock. Nineteen reported, Clarke who was the youngest contestant, sang first "Mandala" by Oley Speaks, and second "A True Love Song" by Adolf.

Asked if he felt nervous he answered: "Well, I suppose I was some, but I was so interested in the experience that I forgot to be nervous."

As all who listened in that evening Oct. 20 can testify, the reception in Rockland was frightful, a constant crashing and banging which grew worse as the evening progressed. It was not possible to get any one number complete without interruption. Miss Knowlton of Belfast, who was sent as from Rockland, sang "Sing me to Sleep" by Edw. Greene. Her voice came beautifully when the crashing was not covering it. We did not recognize her voice, but was able to decide on it as it was the only contralto. Miss Knowlton was said to be the prettiest and most charming girl present at the audition. Her second number was "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes."

The crashing was so continuous that it did not seem possible to me that an intelligent vote could be cast as it was almost impossible to catch the numbers as they were announced. The decision was about as expected. The Portland entrants, Miss Avis Lamb and Charles E. Feeney, winning. Without doubt the reception in Portland was well-nigh perfect and as the entrants are both well-known musicians, with considerable experience and training, not surprising. Miss Lamb sang "The Winds in the South" by John Pringle and "Sunlight" by Harriet Ware. Mr. Feeney sang "Tommy Lad" by Margeson and "Duna" by McGILL. Miss Lamb is among the best known younger musicians of Portland. She has trained quite extensively, has broadcast, and been heard in concert work. When the Rubinstein Club of Portland gave an exchange program with the Rubinstein Club she was one of their representatives.

Mrs. Kathleen Marston, contralto, and Fred S. Sherman, bass, of Camden are singing regularly with the choir at the First Baptist Church. They are singers who always lend material help, each possessing a voice of power and having had considerable experience in church music.

From a Portland paper this item: "Miss Helene Mosher, formerly of Belfast, who moved with her parents to Bangor when she was a young girl, and who last year went to California to live, is now studying voice with Louise Graveure, the world famous baritone. Miss Mosher has a very beautiful soprano voice and was frequently heard in public affairs in Bangor, critics predicting a wonderful career for her." Miss Mosher is a friend of Mrs. Maryon Benner of this city. She was mentioned in a recent issue of this column.

Particular mention should be made of the kindness of Mrs. Emily Stevens who took the Rubinstein representatives to Augusta for an exchange program with the Cecilia Club. Mrs. Stevens offered her car and herself as driver. It was a rainy day, especially on the homeward drive, and two punctured tires did not add to the comfort of the occasion. Mrs. Stevens met both obstacles with good cheer as all in a day's happenings. The club gives her a sincere vote of appreciative thanks.

copies was quickly sold and those who had not secured a paper could be heard vainly asking for more. The first edition was of four pages and contained editorials, class news, poems, athletics, faculty notes, general news and jokes. The editorial by Miss Dorothy Eaton on "School Spirit" presented an entirely new version of the subject and it is of general opinion that if all of the students would follow some of Miss Eaton's suggestion there would be but a slight lack of school spirit. She brought out the fact that school spirit is loyalty in every act and deed. A clever poem on "Cheering Gum" by Mrs. Whittemore received much favorable comment even though it did "hit home" in numerous instances. The jokes, which were collected by Robert Gardner, pertained strictly to students and faculty and many a laugh was heard in the study hall Tuesday afternoon as a result. The next edition will be on sale Nov. 1.

Now that we are no longer having those lazy Indian summer days and it begins to get real winterish after nightfall basketball is no longer a subject that is too far away to talk about. The girls will begin their pre-season workouts in the near future it is expected and it is understood that The Five Basketeers are to begin practice in the gym sometime near the middle of November. The Basketeers had many practice games with the Orange Streaks last winter and under the direction of Lou Cook and Lawrence "Snook" Perry they were a classy aggregation.

Last Friday morning a group of the girls' basketball squad under the direction of Miss Kathleen Webber put on the best rally that has been held this fall. Several pieces of the R. H. S. orchestra played a number of selections and Dr. Kent gave a fine talk about the football team. As this is being written Dr. Kent is at Knox Hospital recovering from his recent operation and the whole school is wishing him the best of luck.

Last Saturday will go down in the books as another successful day for Rockland High. The football team went good in its game with Morse High of Bath and after the regulars had scored 14 points to the visitors' 6 Coach Bill Macomber sent in his working hard this week for Cony and in order to pull out with a win this afternoon the team will have to be in there every minute with the "old fight."

The Seniors held another social in the gym last Saturday night and even though the Morse High School football team was unable to be present the affair was a great success and the Seniors netted a considerable profit.

After having all kinds of hard luck in the line of injuries the football team received a severe blow this past week when Frank Knight and Dick Emery were declared ineligible. Knight has been gaining a lot of ground in the Rockland backfield while Emery has been doing most of the kicking. Both boys will be able to play today but will be out of the Winslow game next Saturday.

FEARFUL OF BORAH
Success of the Republican party at the next general election is threatened and the agricultural program will be jeopardized, Gov. Adam McMillen of Nebraska declared Monday unless what he describes as the proposed plan of Senator Borah to gain control of the western delegates at the 1928 national convention is challenged.

WHAT COMPETITION MEANS

Foreign Cement, Cheaply Manufactured, Means Great Losses To This Country's Welfare.

The new cement industry at Thomaston is a material addition to the industrial prosperity of the country. Unfortunately its relative addition cannot be directly estimated. There are no manufacturing census figures available for Knox County later than those of the census of 1919. Any comparison must be made on the basis of these earlier figures.

The comparison, however, is more accurate than the time element would seem to indicate. It is true that the industrial output of Knox County has increased since 1919. It is also true, however, that prices of industrial products have dropped decidedly since the earlier year. The two factors tend to counterbalance each other and to make the comparison between total industrial output in 1919 and cement output under current conditions more exact than would seem possible at first glance.

The contributions which the new cement industry would make to the industrial life of Knox County if it has a chance to be successful are here shown:

Total number of wage earners, manufacturing activities in Knox County, 1919, 2,231.
Total number of cement workers, Knox County, 250.

Per cent cement workers to total industrial workers, 9.1.
Total wages paid to industrial workers in Knox County in 1919, $2,614,065.

Total wages paid cement workers in Knox County, $375,000.
Per cent cement wages to total industrial wages, 14.4.

Total value manufactured products Knox County, 1919, $10,740,625.

Value cement produced, Knox County, $1,700,000.
Per cent value cement to total value products, 15.8.

An exact comparison with 1919 is not possible but a fairly close approximation is. On this basis it is worth noting that whereas the cement industry would employ only 9.1 per cent of the total workers in Knox County it would pay 14.4 per cent of the total wages. In other words the cement worker receives for his labor an amount materially higher than the average industrial worker.

Through the activities of the cement industry 300 wage earners and other employees would be directly employed. Another 424 would gain their employment through the transportation of coal, gypsum and supplies, and the transportation of the finished product. It would directly contribute $495,000 in wages and salaries and another $581,000 to workers engaged in the production of its raw materials and in transporting its raw materials and its finished products.

The chief obstacle which the new Maine cement industry has to meet is that of the competition of foreign cement in its natural markets. Owing to the fact that cement is one of the few major commodities which pays no tariff, the American seaborad has proved an ideal dumping ground for foreign cement produced at costs which the American cement industry paying American wages cannot hope to meet. In New England, the natural territory of the Maine cement industry, this competition has been particularly severe.

From 1922 to the end of 1926, 1,332,485 barrels of cement have been imported into the New England market of the Maine cement industry. These 1,332,485 barrels directly cost the cement industry $2,333,826 in revenue. What it cost the country as a whole in business activity can only be conjectured. A dollar created by the useful products of a domestic industry remains in the country, passes through countless hands, and gives rise to a multitude of exchanges of all sorts from which all consumers, particularly the workers, benefit. A dollar spent for a foreign competitive product goes out of the country entirely and loses all force as a stimulation of domestic business.

What happened to the rank and file of the country because of this subtraction of over two and one-quarter million dollars from the cement industry? In the first place cement employees lost directly $611,393 in salaries and wages which were not paid in this country because of the displacement of domestic cement by the foreign product. And the cement worker is decidedly of the rank and file of the country.

For these 1,332,485 barrels not a pound of domestic coal or gypsum was used in manufacture. As a result domestic coal mines lost the sale of 112,565 tons of coal and receipts of $248,769 of which the American coal miner would have received in wages $149,261. Gypsum mines lost revenue of $21,228, from which the gypsum miner would have received $7,430 in wages. Power plants lost $213,197. Ten per cent of the 1926 business of domestic textile bag manufacturers was in cotton sacks for the cement industry. The foreign cement producer patronizes neither. Textile mills lost, therefore, $75,475 which otherwise would have been spent for cement sacks. The textile worker as a result was poorer by $18,869—and the cotton farmer whose income is not too encouraging at any time dropped an additional $42,480.

Cement and the materials for making it and carrying on its operations is bulk freight. It pays immense sums to American railroads. Almost all foreign cement is sold in seaboard markets and pays little or no freight. If these 1,332,485 barrels of foreign cement had not displaced a similar amount of cement of domestic production American railroads would have added a total of revenue from them of over one million dollars. Of this the rail worker would have received 43 per cent, or $436,564.

Briefly, these imports of foreign cement in the New England market over the last five years have injured American interests as follows: Domestic labor lost in wages, $1,315,437; railroads have lost in revenue, $1,015,125; coal mines lost sales of $248,769; textile mills and cotton growers have lost $117,955; machine shops and foundries lost sales of $495,000; domestic cement was displaced to the extent of $1,332,485; power plants lost business amounting to $213,197.

In another article will be shown in detail to what extent these imports have damaged the market for cement in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts.

ISSUE MORE STOCK

Public Utilities Commission Gives Central Maine That Authority.
The Public Utilities Commission of Maine has handed down a decision granting the Central Maine Power Company the authority to issue stock aggregating $600,000. The petition states that the main reason for the issue is contemplated immediate extension and improvements to amount to $1,327,440.

The company's future activities include the development of Brassua Lake for storage purposes and further development at Gulf Island. In order to supply electrical power to the large plant of the Lawrence Portland Cement Company at Thomaston, the Central Maine will be obliged to rebuild its transmission lines from Gulf Island to Maxcey's and build an extension of six miles of 33,000 volts, with sub-station equipment to the cement company's plant.

The commission says in its decision that in event any of the money authorized to be derived from the sale of the stock is not needed for the purposes intended, such money, or such stock, if it be not sold, is to be held in a segregated fund and used for no other purpose than that authorized.

TWO WOMEN FOUND HELP

Their Sickness Banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Nina Matteson, Box 206, Oxford, N. Y., writes: "If it had not been for your medicine, I could not have done what I did. As it should have been done. Mother told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I had read in different papers what it had done for different women. She wanted me to try it, so my husband got me one bottle at first; then I took two others. Now I am feeling quite strong again."

Mrs. Ernest Tanguay of Adams, Mass., says she was ill for four years and could not sleep nights or go out on the street. She read about the Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking eight bottles she was able to do all her work and go anywhere and is quite herself again.

This dependable Vegetable Compound is a household word in thousands of homes. The fourth generation is now learning the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If this medicine has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you? At your druggist's.
